Our Comments: Intermediate Trader

Radoslav Horak, your Scorecard responses suggest that your trader profile is Intermediate. As an Intermediate trader, you have probably been trading for at least 2 years and you are trading with a live trading account. At this stage, you have probably experienced many of the trader pitfalls and understand some of the mistakes that traders make: Trading without a trade plan on emotion; risking more than your risk profile will allow; adding to losing positions in the market; watching a winning position turn into a loser; and, trading at all hours in the day because trading can be fun. You may have been on the teeter totter between fear and greed and you conceptually understand that you need to be at the fulcrum, or in the middle. Your trading account fluctuates up and down and you are not making as much money as you would like. You should also be aware of The Technical Trader's Trap™ because understanding these trader pitfalls can save you a lot of time and money in your journey to become a successful trader in your own trading business. Traders that fall into this trap have three problems that they must overcome and they are illustrated in the following chart.

THE TECHNICAL TRADER'S TRAP™

Problem 1	Problem 2	Problem 3
Waste time and effort	Lose money	Not achieve your full potential as a trader
They waste time on the Internet constantly looking for new trading strategies	They over trade	They treat trading as a hobby and not as a business
They become technical junkies	They move between fear and greed	They don't have clear goals and a business plan
Their efforts are scattered	They react emotionally to the market	They don't track their performance
They give up too soon	They don't have a clear trading strategy	They don't have a team to make them accountable
Not patient	They don't establish clear rules and boundaries	They don't have a coach
They have a get-rich-quick mentality	They don't have a trade plan	They are not balanced in their personal lives
They keep looking for the Holy Grail		They lack certain entrepreneurial skills and habits

Next Steps

As an Intermediate trader, you can probably relate to The Technical Trader's Trap™, although hopefully you have grown as a trader and are not spending as much time spinning your wheels. You recognize that you have work to do to achieve your full potential as a trader and move from Intermediate to Advanced trader. Are you going to invest further in your education? That is the choice you have to make. The investment in your education will last a lifetime. The recommendation for you is to work with a coach to fine tune your trading skills by brushing up on what is lacking in your education to date. Learn the proper skills and habits of an entrepreneurial trader so that you grow into an Advanced, successful trader running your own trading business. Commit to your Education and Success.

We've designed a program to help Intermediate traders supplement their skills and habits in order to grow into an Advanced and successful trader. The FX Trader's EDGE™ Program combines mentoring and coaching to get you where you want to be in a relatively short period of time.
